Germany's Foreign Minister Sigmar Gabriel has demanded that US President Donald Trump's administration stop its "disinformation" and accuse its foes, whether Russians, Chinese or Iranians. He called on the US to "get a grip" on world affairs and condemned the fact that the Trump administration has "not spoken out yet" against Russia's interference in the 2016 US election. The interview was published in the newspaper Die Zeit. Trump came into office in January and, on his first day, claimed he had a "tremendous" relationship with Russia. But that relationship deteriorated as revelations about Russian efforts to influence the 2016 US presidential elections emerged. "The problem is, and I have discussed this with President Putin, that he has failed to live up to the potential we had expected from him," Gabriel said. "The question is, what is the United States going to do?" US leaders and diplomats have accused Moscow of interfering in the US election. "If you have proof, show us that," Gabriel added. "The whole world is demanding answers
